Seniors Dave Smith and Mike Nastally try out the new lockers.

This is the year to build 1980 can be remembered as the year to build. Everything, from the school to the local streets, was under construction.

Each day the people we met helped to build our personalities. The classes we attended helped to build our minds. Our activities helped us to grow as individuals and our sports helped us to build our bodies.

This year brought many challenges, surprises, and changes. The year left us with happy memories and the knowledge that we can meet those challenges and be successful.

Every person involved with the school has grown in some way this year. 1980 was the year to build!

Stacy Harter, senior, samples the carpet choices for the building trades' house.

Mr. Mark Ober, art teacher, instructs eighth grade students Janet Ousley, Todd Miller and Gay Penland during class.

Freshman Tina Weller works to complete a pinata for Spanish Club.

Rob Manuel and John Cordes make their selections during the book fair.

All local streets underwent reconstruction when a new sewer system was installed.

Miss Cheryl Peters meets the opposition raised by her donkey during the teacher-merchant game. The merchants got by the teachers with a score of 16-14.

Junior Class nets $1530 for prom

Junior class members sponsored a donkey basketball game between the faculty members and the Garrett Merchants Association.

Included on the teachers team were Mr. Fred Sowles, Mr. Mark Ober, Mrs. Deb Lepley, Miss Cheryl Peters, Mr. Steve Short and Mr. Jim Herzer.

The donkeys posed some problems when they decided to lead their riders. Many players spent time on the floor when the donkey they were riding bucked them off.

The merchants edged the teachers 16-14. The junior class netted around $1,500 which they used for the junior-senior prom.

Donkeys psych up for the teacher-merchants game.

Before the game begins, donkeys huddle up to review team strategy. During the game it became evident that the donkeys' goal was to keep the players off their backs.

GHS Students follow fall traditions

Band members went through the 1980 school year without a football field to practice or perform on. The band met each morning at 6:30 a.m. to practice on the parking lot.

GHS band members performed in many marching contests during the year including competitions at East Noble and Lewis Cass.

Competing in the class C division, the forty-one member band entered the NISBOVA contest. Drum majorette Joyce Bandy led the members through their marching routines.

Following the final football game, band members "decorated" Mr. David Silden's home in the traditional TP.

Seniors Katie Kilgore and Nate Hoeffel were crowned Homecoming Queen and King. Members of the Sophomore Class got the award for best decorated truck.

Band members continued the tradition of TPing the home of band director David Silden after the final football game of the season.

Peak of building project brings inconveniences

The beginning of the 1979-80 school year brought with it the peak of construction on the building. School began with no bells, no intercom and very crowded conditions.

Announcements were made via the "daily telegraph" which was read during third period classes.

Students were doubling and tripling up in lockers that previously had been too small and inconvenient for one person.

The agriculture facility, which was completed in early 1979, housed the agriculture classes, the special education classes and guidance counselor Lenore Lewis.

Guidance counselors Becky Derrow and Larry Piety put their office in the home economics room. Assistant principal Jack Gibson and Mrs. Esther Rench established their office in the west concession stand.

Principal Gaylord Toll and Mrs. Jayne DeLong moved their office to the elementary building. Miss Leslie Wise ran the library out of the south-east concession stand again this year.

Football squads had no practice field and no home games. Players traveled to Auburn every night to practice. The band members had to practice marching on the parking lot.

Many hallways in the school were closed at the beginning of school. This made traveling from one place to another more complicated. The hallway by the cafeteria was the only link to rooms on the north side of the building.

Carpenters Jack Bickley, kneeling, and "Big Red" build locker frames.

Doug Ashenfelter seals the dry wall in the new hallways.

Red, blue, white and silver lockers line the new locker commons. Each student received a locker late in December. The locker commons is centrally located near the offices and the media center. The multi-colored locker facility, containing 538 new lockers features separate book and coat sections.

The new agriculture facilities, including a classroom and shop area were put to use in early 1979. The outside ramp was installed in October.

Work on the media center reaches its peak in early January. Blue, red and white study centers line the east wall.

Mr. Ray Souder, head custodian, shows Principal Gaylord Toll and Superintendent Kermit Weddell the progress on the office facilities.

New facilities put to use

Crash! Boom! Such were common sounds during most of the construction at GHS. But following the noise and inconveniences, the new facilities were put to use.

The parking lots and outside lights were completed by the end of November.

Students moved into the 538 new lockers in late December. Each student received a locker with separate coat and book compartments.

Administrators and guidance counselors moved into their new offices January 21, 1980. Included in the center court area are the media center, a teachers' lounge, offices, two sets of rest-rooms and a nursing station.

Painter Bob Bruce puts the finishing touches on pillars near the lockers.

Senior Class produces 3 act comedy 'Harvey'

A relieved but elated cast returns for a final curtain call after the last night's performance of "Harvey". Cast members include Brent Ferguson, Mary Gingery, Eric Dircksen, Katie Kilgore, Brad Forker, Jodi McMillan and Ron Conrad. Mrs. Susan J. Roberts directed the play and Tammy Maggert served as assistant director. Many other seniors were involved with the play as behind-the-scenes crew members.

"Harvey" was the three act comedy about a six foot one-and-a-half inch invisible rabbit which the Senior Class presented.

The plot of the play centered around the problems which arose when Harvey became visible to Elwood P. Dowd. This disrupted the life of his family and they attempted to have him committed.

The play left the audience wondering who really had the warped sense of reality, Elwood or society.

County Fall Fair appeals to Many GHS students participated in the Dekalb County Free Fall Fair. GHS swing choir members entered competition and earned second place. Hamilton's choir took first place.

Band members and the Sidetrackers performed in the parades. Tammy Maggert and Lori Letizia entered the Miss Dekalb County Contest. Although they did not place, the girls represented GHS very well.

Future Farmers of America sold apple cider during the fair and 4-H members showed their projects and exhibits.

12 participate in contest for Miss Garrett title

The annual Miss Garrett pageant brought a week of fun and excitement to twelve girls as they rehearsed for the competition.

Participating in the contest were Becky Thrush, Susie Bickle, Jami Knott, Kathy Bergner, Joni Feagler, Denise Denes, Jodi McMillan, Jody Simcox, Karen Conkle, Tammy Maggert, Jodi Piety and Lori Letizia.

Jodi Piety was crowned Miss Garrett and Tammy Maggert was named runner-up. Lori Letizia received the talent award.

Tammy and Lori went on to compete in the Miss DeKalb County contest. Jodi, explaining her decision not to compete in the county contest, said, "I had lots of fun in the Miss Garrett pageant but I do not care to go on."

Lori's talent consisted of a three-in-one act. She tapped to "I Can Do That", performed a jazz routine to "I Believe In Love" and did a slow dance interpretation of "You Light Up My Life." Tammy presented a jazz dance to "Car Wash".

Smiling for the camera after the awards were presented are Tammy Maggert, first runner-up, Jodi Piety, Miss Garrett, Tammi Piety, retiring Miss Garrett, and Lori Letizia, talent winner.

Convos add life to school days

OEA members sponsored a Teacher-Creature day on Halloween. All teachers in both the grade school and the high school were encouraged to wear costumes to school. Many students also participated by wearing costumes.

High school and grade school students and teachers attended the convocation. Awards were presented to both teachers and students.

Christmas brought another holiday convocation. The band and choir members provided the entertainment. Senior Eric Dircksen directed the band for a few of their selections. The combined choirs, under the direction of Miss Margaret Buttermore, sang many holiday tunes.

Pep sessions preceded many of the athletic events. Pep band members kept the beat going during all the pep sessions and the home games.

A French horn is an important instrument in the concert band. This French horn has 11 slides.

Runners reduce individual times during season

Senior Co-captain Carson Sparks keeps perfect stride while concentrating on form.

The Railroader cross country team participated in invitationals at Churubusco, West Noble, Lakeland and South Side during the 1979 season. Members also ran in the NEIC meet and at sectional competition.

Working under first-year coach Robert Novy, the Railroaders made a lot of individual improvement as the season progressed. Although the runners failed to win a meet during the season, individuals reduced their time at each meet.

Freshman Pete Bowman had the highest place finish (second) in any meet. Pete also ran the best time for the season (13:53).

Seniors Andy Herzer and Carson Sparks were co-captains of the 11-member team. Next year five lettermen will return to give strength to the team.

Varsity gridgers face daily inconveniences, end season with 2-8 record

"The 1979 football season for the Garrett Railroaders was far from the most enjoyable season I have been through. It was inconvenient busing the players to Auburn every night for practice and we did not have a home field on which to play our games," said Varsity Football Coach John Hutton.

Team members ended the season with a 2-8 record. "The record was disappointing because I sincerely felt we were a better team than our record showed," said Coach Hutton, "The attitude of the team was excellent. They deserved a better record."

Seniors Bob Isham and Paul Ewing served as the team captains this season. Paul was named Most Valuable Player by his fellow team members.

The high points of the 1979 football season were the wins against Whitko and Bluffton. Coach Hutton is optimistic about next year's squad.

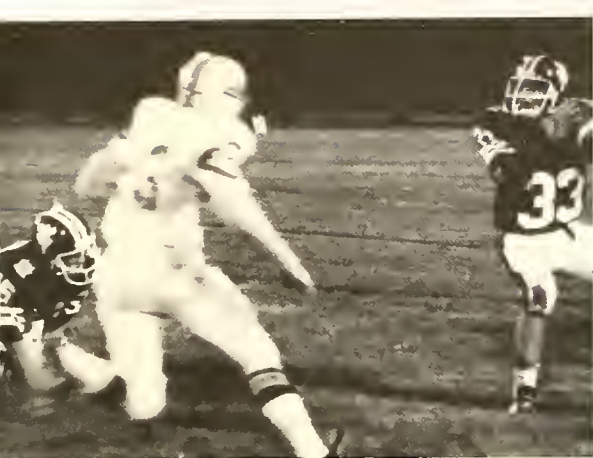

"I look forward to next year. We will have a new practice field and a new game field. This alone should improve the spirit of next year's team," said Coach Hutton.

The reserve football team ended its winning season with a 5-3-1 record. "This year's reserve football team turned out to be a very pleasant surprise," stated Coach Denny Feagler.

Junior Varsity players finished the season with three consecutive shutouts against New Haven, Woodlan and Angola. The team also won its first game of the season in a close game against East Noble.

Players had to make many sacrifices during the season. Squad members had no practice field and no home field. This meant traveling to Auburn to practice every day. Many players had to play out of their positions during the games but, "They never complained," said Coach Feagler.

Despite the winning record, Coach Feagler considered the improvement each player made as the most important aspect of this year's team. "The winning record is nice, but each player had to work hard to improve his skills to achieve this winning record," said Coach Feagler.

Juniors Doug Gilliland, tight end, and Chris Chisholm, tackle, show enthusiasm after a muddy 6-0 victory over Angola.

6-3 Frosh appear ready for future

Freshman football team members experienced a very successful season with a 6-3 record for the year. "This team accumulated more wins for the season than any other GHS freshman team has in many years," said Coach Richard Boyd.

"Team members had a never say die attitude," stated Coach Boyd. The squad won two games in overtime; one coming from behind. Freshman players stopped Churubusco within the ten-yard line which prevented the opponent from tying the game.

According to Coach Boyd, the freshmen are enthusiastically anticipating being the Railroader varsity of the future.

Quarterback Doug Shippy turns to hand the ball off as (51) Scott Mason and (80) Steve Zolman do some fierce blocking.

"The eighth grade football team played better than their record indicates," stated Coach Jim Hecksel. Each game was exciting and the scores could have been reversed. Big plays by the other teams made the difference. According to Coach Hecksel, "No one player ever dominated the field. With work, these athletes can develop the ability to be winners."

The eighth grade gridders scored a total of 64 points for the year. Their leading scorer was Brad Babbitt. Randy Bock and Darren Peters dominated the linemen on offense. Two rushing backs stood out among the others; they were Craig Lepard and Brad Babbitt. Not allowing the offense to gain many yards, the defensive backs Brad Johnson and Mark George did their jobs well. Defending the line of scrimmage, linemen Dave Shields and Jeff Knott held their positions respectively.

"The seventh graders won their last two games which should be a good springboard into next season," says Coach Jim Hecksel. "For these gridders, this was their first taste of interscholastic sports. The season was a learning experience for all the players." Each team member played enthusiastically and showed improvement throughout the season.

Scoring a total of 87 points with a record of three wins and four losses, these players did a good job of working together.

Mark Goebel, Tim Sparks, Gaylon Wisel and Robert Knott did an excellent job of carrying the pigskin. The terrific blocking of Mark Hall, Tim Gordon and Kirk Johnson helped to provide a strong offense. The defensive line of Mark Goebel, Tim Gordon and Tim Sparks held the opponent from scoring many points. Dennis Weimer and Randy Bartels, two defensive backs, cut off the pass to the opposing receivers and intercepted a number of times.

Railroaders achieve three-way tie for NEIAC title

The 1979-80 GHS varsity basketballers pulled out a 16-5 record after the sectional games. After defeating Columbia City 57-56, the Railroaders gained a three-way tie for the NEIAC conference title.

Many team members received awards. Seniors Andy Herzer and Chris Winans were named All-conference first team. Gregg Grubb received an honorable mention in the conference. Chris also received the Auburn Evening Star Prep of the Year award. Andy was named Channel 21 player of the week. The Evening Star named Andy and Chris to the all area team. Senior Kraig Kelham and junior Randy Beber were listed as the most improved players.

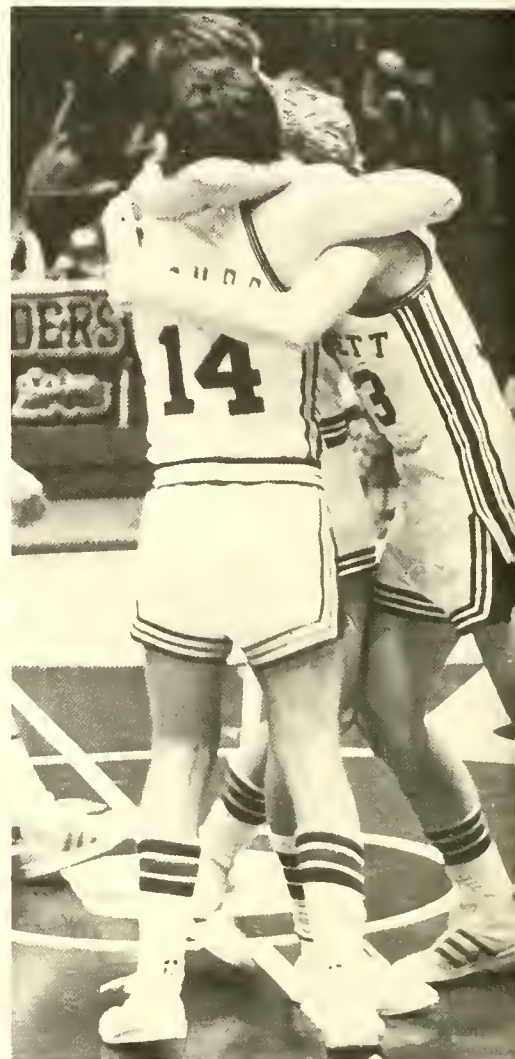

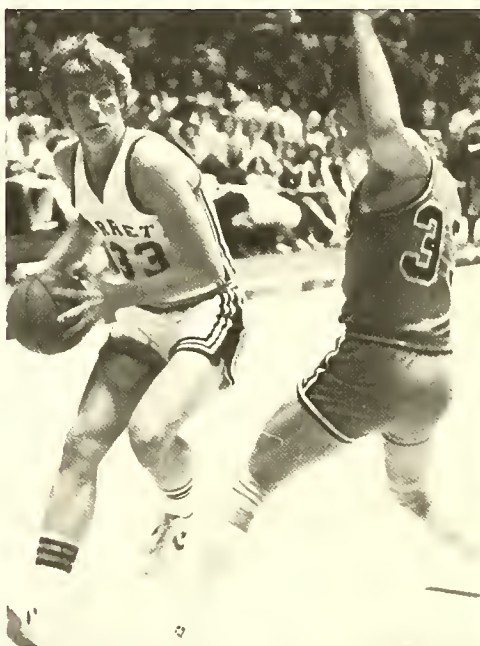

Coach Larry Piety stated that this team did so well because of the players' unselfishness, their overall defensive play and their remarkable defensive average of 50.1.

East Noble proved to be the team's toughest encounter for the season. Coach Piety attributed the pressure of the game to the fact that the game was on their home court and East Noble had not been beaten on their court all season and that a win was needed to take the conference title.

"Every player did exactly what was asked of her. Many players went even further in an effort to become the best players they could," said Coach Rocky Pressler of the girls' team.

Coach Pressler presented medals to the following players at the athletic banquet: Kim Velpel, most steals and most assists; Missy Van Ort, most rebounds, most points and highest field goal percentage; and Lori Vanderbosch, highest free throw percentage.

Missy Van Ort was named to All-Conference first team. Senior Kim Velpel was named to All-Conference second team and seniors Tracie Yarian and Robin Young earned All-Conference honorable mention.

J.V. battles to achieve 500 season

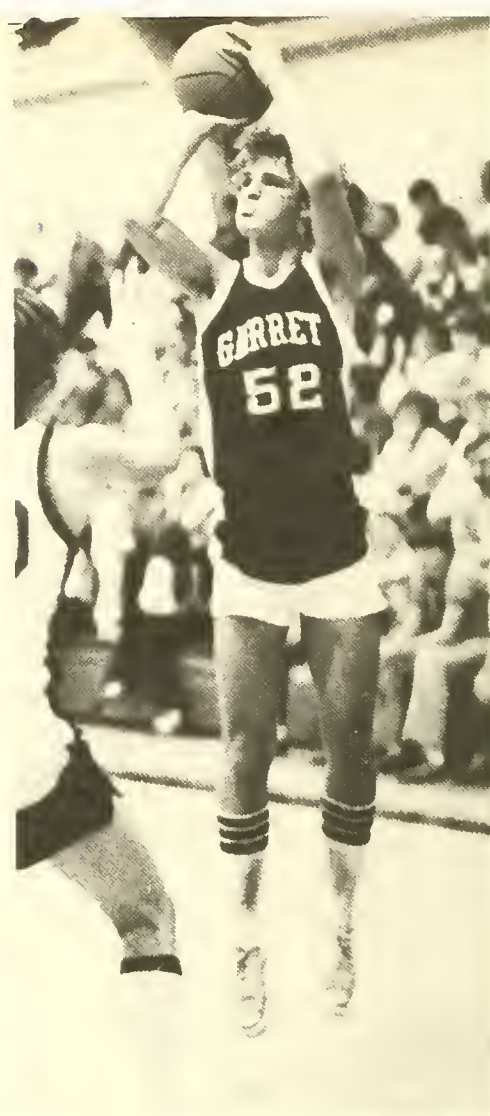

The GHS junior varsity team, under the direction of Coach Dennis Feagler, turned in one of their best records in recent years. They compiled a 10-10 record. The squad also won the Christmas tourney.

Many losses the team suffered were by a small margin including a heartbreaking double-overtime loss to Columbia City in the season finale.

Randy Beber and Tony Surfus played both varsity and reserve. Many times they could play only two quarters of a game. Rick Zolman moved up to the varsity team early in the season leaving another spot to fill.

Frosh suffer through losing season

This year's freshman team had more members than teams in recent years. Coach Stocker practiced with them in the evening, or, when the gym was in use, at 6:30 a.m.

Leading the "A" team in scoring was Brian Michael with 90 points. He was followed closely by Tim Bowmar with 89 points. Dave Vanderbosch led the "B" team by scoring 42 points. The "A" team accumulated a 3-14 record and the "B" team managed a 0-13 record.

Leo proves most successful game for eighth graders

Coach Weimer said, "The boy's worked hard and since they were smaller they had to press for rebounds. They had no consistent scorers."

Leo was the best game for the team since many players scored more times and there were fewer ball handling errors.

RIGHT—Brad Johnson shoots for two as his teammate Craig Lepard watches the hoop.

Coach Weimer gives the team credit for working hard and for having a good attitude. "But," he adds, "They weren't good enough."

He believes that basketball builds character, teaches sportsmanship and cooperation.

"I enjoy coaching junior high. It's fun and I still learn a lot."

Seventh grade basketball team small but determined

"They learned a lot but they were smaller than the opponents, so it really hurt. We lost a lot of heart-breaking games," said Coach Robert Novy about the seventh grade team.

The best game for the junior roundballers came when they played Angola. Angola was considered the best team in the area. Even though the team lost it was only be 15 points when the other area schools lost by 20 to 30 points.

Coach Novy believes that, "The boys needed to grow physically and go up against bigger teams. I'm looking for improvement in the future. The only thing holding them back is their size."

Coach Novy said, "I learned along with the kids. My main goal was that the kids have fun."

Win over DeKalb highlight of season

Miss Cheryl Peters, girls' varsity volleyball coach, placed six seniors, two juniors and four sophomores on the 1979-80 squad. Winning 6 out of 21 games the girls had their share of problems. They didn't seem to get along with each other at first. After many lectures on teamwork, Coach Peters ironed out some discrepancies among them. Another problem was the team's inability to set the ball. By concentrating on special drills the girls gradually began to improve.

Senior co-captain Lori Shull stated, "My last season of volleyball was not as successful as I had hoped record-wise, but a high point of the year was when we beat DeKalb. I hope next years team does a lot better in the win and loss department, but most of all I hope they have as much fun as I did in my four years of high school volleyball."

Lori Vanderbosch shows expert form as she spikes the ball during a varsity game. Kim Penland (14) anticipates the next play.

Coach Lepley names Southside, Carroll most memorable games

Enthusiasm and determination marked the reserve volleyball season. However inexperience and the inability to execute their 4-2 offense led to a 6-7 record.

"Our most memorable game was the South Side game," stated Debbie Lepley. Two other games, Carroll and Bishop Luers, were exceptional because they came back and almost pulled off a win.

Leading the team were captains Krista Dircksen and Linda Shull. "The team got along and worked together really well," commented sophomore Linda Shull.

COUNTRY!

Junior High 'A' team accumulates most wins

Junior high girls' volleyball "A" team accumulated the most wins of all the fall sports teams this year. They ended their season with a 9-1 record.

The team suffered its only loss in scheduled games to Huntertown. The team then won their next nine meets. The girls lost to DeKalb in the final game of the Tri-County Tournament.

Ms. Peggy Ignatz, who coached for the first time this year, enjoyed the experience of coaching and would like to do it again next year. Coach Ignatz felt all team members were valuable since they learned to play as a team. Mary Hile was recognized as the most improved player this season. The team's skill in bumping and serving came as an advantage during the close games.

Coach Ignatz accounts for the team's superb record by stating, "Knowing that they would play in every game gave the girls confidence and made them a good team."

Team members gather together after winning the first game of a match. Coach Peggy Ignatz gives advice for the second game.

Rookie coach leads squad to 8-1 record

The 1979 junior high volleyball "B" team ended their season with a spectacular 8-1 record. The 11 team members started out the season by learning the fundamentals of the game, which are the foundation for any sport. The 11 girls averaged 68 per cent on bumps, 76 per cent on sets, 74 per cent on serves and 54 per cent on spikes.

Tammy Wellhausen, Sue Helbert and Rachel Warstler surprised the opponents with their powerful serves. Dedication to the sport produced excellent spiking ability from Larkin Hunter and Cindy Steckley. Lisa Kidwell and Larkin Hunter proved to be two of the better spikers.

The individuals' confidence played an important part in their ability during a game. This year's coaches found rotating the captains and naming the most valuable player after each game an effective way of building confidence.

Rookie coach Patti Weller explains the loss of the first game by stating, "We really didn't know what to expect. I haven't played volleyball since high school. The other coaches were a big help this year too." Coach Weller also said, "I discovered what the duck walk was. That's for punishment. I also learned not to try to teach the girls how to spike, since I am only 5 foot tall."

"B" team member Lisa Kidwell bumps the ball as Tammy Wellhausen waits at the net to assist. Cindy Steckley (background) and Susan Helbert watch.

Wrestlers sponsor all-school convocation

GHS wrestlers won their match against Eastside as students cheered. "The convocation gave the wrestlers confidence and that is why we won," said Coach Willie Wellhausen.

The 1980 varsity team ended their season with a 5-7 record. Three wrestlers—Rick Abbott, Chuck McPheeters and Kent Davis—went on to compete in Regionals.

Coach Wellhausen named Chuck McPheeters the team's most outstanding wrestler. "It is not only that he had a winning record, but he was willing to do things that we asked him to even though he may not have understood them," said the coach.

Senior John Bougher was named the most improved wrestler because of his ability and confidence.

Kent Davis had the most pins of the season. Rick Abbott and co-captain Gary Ort tied for the most major decisions. Gary also scored the most superior decisions. Chuck McPheeters had the most take-downs and the most total points scored. Chuck also had the fastest pin of the season which was 17 seconds.

Reserve wrestlers ended their season 4-6-1. The squad did their best against East Noble. Bishop Dwenger proved to be their toughest opponent.

Coach Tom Pegelow summed up the season: "Everybody did exactly as I asked. There was constant improvement through the year."

Players give their all during baseball season

"The team tried its hardest and this is what a coach always wants in a team," stated Varsity Baseball Coach Steve Stocker.

Coach Stocker stressed that each team member had to give his all and was depended on to produce during a game situation. "Each class—freshman through senior—made contributions to the team. During one game all 18 team members saw action."

This was the first year that Mr. Tom Pegelow served as the reserve team coach. Twenty-four players comprised his young team and that is the most players Coach Pegelow ever remembers participating on the junior varsity team at GHS. Most of his players were freshmen so the 1980 season proved to be one of learning for the reserves.

Cheerleaders earn first in contest

Last summer the freshman, reserve and varsity cheerleaders attended Universal Cheerleading Association camp at Purdue University where each squad received a blue ribbon. This put the varsity squad among the top ten in the district.

In February the cheerleaders traveled to Eastside where the varsity, competing against 20 other schools, placed first.

Five male bases joined the cheerleaders to add spirit. Katie Kilgore served as the school's devoted mascot.

First-year advisor Deb Lepley reported that the squad earned enough money to buy new jumpers by having a rummage sale and by selling Railroaders pens.

GHS frosh place high at Eastside

The cheerleaders worked to perfect their skills by practicing with other cheerleaders and competing. While at Purdue, the girls were awarded a blue ribbon during their final evaluation. These spirited girls also brought home three red ribbons (one for a pom pon routine and two for cheers). The girls also won one outstanding ribbon for their sideline cheers.

During the school year they attended a one-day clinic at Eastside on February 9. Competing against many other area cheerleaders, the girls placed second. They received a trophy for their work. This is the first time that the freshmen have won a trophy.

Junior high cheerleaders bring spirit to sports events

Junior high cheerleaders practiced twice a week at Sue Gett's home to prepare for the season. Their favorite cheers included "Take It to the Limit" and "Hey! Show 'em".

The worst game that they had to cheer for was an away game at Churubusco. It snowed and was windy and cold.

"This was my first year as a cheerleader. It has been the activity that I enjoyed the most," said eighth grader Shelly Dunham.

Sidetrackers add reserve squad, get letter jackets

This year's squad members attended a summer clinic at Ball State University. The girls performed with the band at the DeKalb County Fair.

During basketball season the varsity squad performed to tunes such as "Soul Man," "If My Friends Could See Me Now," "Shake Your Groove Thing" and "In the Navy". Reserve squad members presented "Ease on Down the Road". Varsity squad members performed "Anchors Aweigh!" while reserve members presented the flag for pre-game.

The Sidetrackers also performed at a girls' basketball game and they opened the annual OEA Superstars competition with a routine.

Senior girls received letter jackets this year. Squad members sold candy and sponsored a dance featuring "Spectrum" to earn money for next year's squad.

The Pom Pon girls could perform at only two football games because of construction on the new football field.

We build our interests through clubs.

Deb Myers receives Best Thespian Award

GHS Thespian Troupe 2435 helped stage many plays during the school year. With the help of Mrs. Susan Roberts, theatre arts teacher, the troupe participated in all the plays during the year.

Beginning with the senior play "Harvey" (about a big, invisible rabbit), members took the major roles in the plays. Next there was "Picnic", William Inge's poignant drama about a summer romance. Roger's and Hamerstein's musical "Oklahoma" closed the successful season for the troupe.

Between plays members displayed their diversified talents by participating in other ways. Members conducted a bake sale to raise money. Some members staged a Christmas show for the elementary school children both at the J.E. Ober and St. Joseph Schools.

This year the troupe decided that they needed uniforms like other clubs at school. Members put together crazy outfits consisting of khaki pants, sneakers, rainbow suspenders and baseball jerseys with their names and troupe number on them.

Senior Deb Myers was awarded the Best Thespian award at the closing dinner at Noble Romans. Katie Kilgore received the Ad Lib award.

Thad Smith places high

This was a very trying year for the GHS forensics team. Several members encountered many conflicts during the year and some met with long illnesses. Nevertheless, the faithful team members braved the elements and the odds against them to compete in the meets.

The team traveled to Wayne, Columbia City and Southside High Schools to compete in meets. Thad Smith placed fifth at Southside and sixth at Wayne in the impromptu event. Thad then went on to compete in sectionals at DeKalb where he placed eighth. He also placed eighth at Huntington High School.

Although the ultimate goal of any forensics team is to win, it is also important for the team to have fun trying. Judging from the laughter and jokes after many meets, it is plain to see that the GHS troupe did have fun.

Language clubs attend culture day, learn dances

Members of German club and Spanish club attended culture days at Elmhurst High School in March. Students learned more about the history of the countries through music and dance presentations.

Twenty-seven German club members attended the show by the Pollidors, a German group which tours America. The performers were dressed in traditional German clothes.

Forty Spanish students saw the Ballet Folkorico Mexicano de Graciela Tapia. Students watched the performers demonstrate the dances and then they had the opportunity to try the dances. Spanish club member Jini Ricketts was among the volunteers from the audience who went on stage to learn dance steps to the chotis, redola and polca.

Gemutlichkeitsverein club members went to a Christmas party at DeKalb High School. Members taught German Christmas carols to DeKalb students. DeKalb's members presented skits in German.

"I enjoyed the humorous skits and I tried desperately to communicate in Deutsch (German), said Lena Sorensen, club secretary.

Fourteen members were initiated March 11. All candidates to join German club had to wear clothes to school that were the color of the German Flag. These colors are Schwarz (black), Rot (red), and Gelb (yellow).

Initiation consisted of an evening party with the traditional lighting of the candles and signing of the membership book. Refreshments were served following the ceremonies.

Initiates included Brian Michael, Troy Dickerson, Alicia Jackway, Joy Hixson, Juanita Wagner, Pete Bowman, Sotirios Tsogas, Kari Blust, David Koehl, Jay Johnson, Doug Gilliland and Jed Mellot.

Spanish club members made pinatas for their yearly money-maker. The club earned about $150 by selling the pinatas at Christmas.

Club members went to Gringo's, a Spanish restaurant, April 17. This gave the club members a chance to sample food from the country they had been studying all year.

Mrs. Shirley Wallace, club advisor, comments on the club's activities, "We didn't have a very busy year because all of the football games were away." Spanish club usually schedules various activities for the football games.

Pep band adds jazz, beat to basketball games

Membership in pep band is strictly on a volunteer basis but I am very pleased with the turn-out," stated band director Mr. David Silden. Thirty-one people were in the band this year.

Members presented "The National Anthem" and other songs at home games. Features of the year included

"Night Train," "Disco Inferno," and "Rocky."

PEP CLUB

"This year the girls' main priority was to promote spirit for all of the sports and to support the teams," said Mrs. Deb Lepley, sponsor.

Members sponsored Parents' Night during basketball and football seasons. Parents of athletes, cheerleaders and managers were honored.

Pep club also provided hall decorations before the DeKalb and East Noble games. Members had a dance after basketball season.

FFA members take many top honors

Future Farmers of America completed many projects during the year. During the fall they harvested corn and beans which were still in the field. This money was put into the treasury for expenses during the year.

Mr. Andy Giegold, vo-ag instructor, and Mr. Andy Runyon, DeKalb County Conservation officer, taught a hunter education safety course to interested students. This class was sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources, Law Enforcement Division. The class teaches the fundamentals of arms and archery, responsibilities of hunters, survival and first aid and the identification of wildlife. To pass the class each student must earn a score of 70 per cent on a comprehensive test.

A major part of the year was spent getting ready for district convention. Garrett's Chapter placed sixth out of 19 schools at convention. Wendy Goldie placed first in the Sweetheart contest and went on to compete at the state contest at Purdue University in June. Chris Chisholm placed third in the impromptu speaking contest. Many other members contributed to the chapter's ranking by participating in contests.

In October the annual FFA awards banquet was staged. Parents and members joined together to recognize the achievements made by members in the past year. They also thanked community members for their contributions to the organization.

FFA judging teams placed first in both dairy and livestock county judging contests. These teams then went on to compete in district contest. Tom Yarde placed first in the district contest to become eligible to compete in the state contest.

Tom Yarde received his Hoosier Farmer Degree at state convention in June. This is the highest award which the State FFA can bestow upon a member.

Members sold seeds and planted crops in the spring. They helped landscape the building trades house and the areas around the school.

Officers for the 1979-80 school year were Chris Chisholm, president; Andy Hall, vice-president; Wendy Goldie, secretary; Mark Felger, treasurer, Debbie Thrush, reporter; Doug LaLone, photographer; and Tom Yarde, sentinel.

OEA scrapbook places 3rd in state competition

"OEA had a very successful year," commented President Pam Hollinger. "We had a lot of group participation," added Pam. OEA was a very active club throughout the 1979-80 school year. New projects were started weekly.

Joyce Bandy and Jackie Ruger received first place in scrapbook competition at the state convention in Indianapolis. They then received third in national competition. Susie Bickel and Kathy Bergner achieved third place in Chapter of the Year competition at the state level.

Forty students, 10 teachers and 10 merchants participated in the OEA Superstars event which the juniors won. Approximately $400 was raised through the event and used for members to attend state convention.

During the year, members sold T-shirts, candles, bells and etchings. OEA sponsored the boys' varsity and reserve basketball breakfast, student directory sales, a cake walk, the coat check and Wee Haven Valentine and Halloween parties.

OEA also sponsored the Semi-Formal. The theme for this year's holiday dance was "Starry, Starry Night". The crowning of OEA Queen Pam Hollinger highlighted the evening.

NHS initiates 33 members; has service projects

National Honor Society members were very busy with their service projects during the year. NHS initiated 33 new members in a candlelight service at the beginning of the year. Refreshments were served following the program. Each new member received a membership pin and a rose.

During the year NHS conducted a Christmas party for Head Start students. Chris Chisholm and Bill Sherwood served as Santa Claus for the event. Members also had an Easter party for the Wee Haven students. An Easter egg hunt highlighted the party.

Members had a teacher appreciation breakfast for the teachers and administration. NHS served egg casserole, toast, coffee and juice.

NHS members sold M&M's during the year to make money for their activities. All the seniors wore white caps and gowns during graduation exercises.

FCA members raise $131 through penny-pitch

Fellowship of Christian Athletes opened their year of activities by co-sponsoring the annual FCA-Lettermen's hayride. The movie "King Kong" was shown afterward.

Members had an overnight session in the Paul Bateman gym during which all members participated in various sporting events. Members also had refreshments during the evening.

At each home basketball game before Christmas break and at the DeKalb-Garrett wrestling match, members conducted a penny-pitch. Over $131 was collected for the Garrett Christmas Bureau. Members also went Christmas caroling to the homes of senior citizens and some faculty members.

FCA invited all coaches, faculty members and administrators to a breakfast at Lucky Steer. The guest speaker was Mr. Collin Lister, general manager of the Fort Wayne Komets.

Members hosted the special education classes of J.E. Ober School at the Hamilton basketball game. Members explained the game to the children and tried to make sure that they had a good time.

FCA sponsored a weight-lifting event. All donations were used to provide the weight room with an all-purpose tile floor. Members also conducted a 12-hour bike-a-thon to raise money for a stereo for the weight room.

Lettermen sponsor WMEE-faculty game

The Lettermen's Club started out the year with two new sponsors. Mr. John Hutton and Mr. Tom Pegelow assumed the role of faculty advisors.

Officers for the year included Kraig Kelham, president; Paul Ewing, vice-president; Ron Conrad, treasurer; and Kim Nierman, secretary.

Lettermen co-sponsored the FCA-Lettermen's hayride. Members also sponsored a basketball game between WMEE radio disc jockeys and the GHS faculty. WMEE won the game 76-72. Mr. Denny Feagler led the Railroaders with 16 points. Mr. David Neal scored 12 points for the faculty.

Lettermen plan to use all of the proceeds from their activities to put a "Wall of Fame" in the commons area. The names of all athletes who participated in semi-state and state competition will be placed in this area.

Art club sponsors local art show for craftsmen

Under the leadership of art club officers Steve Griffin, president; Greg Kock, vice-president; Todd Marti, sergeant-at-arms; and Katie Kilgore, secretary; the art club participated in a number of activities during the year.

This year members provided art for display in the new media center. Club members painted playground equipment for the elementary school. Art Club also put on an art show and sale in May in which club and community members displayed and sold their artwork.

This year the art club took a field trip to L.S. Ayres in Fort Wayne for an art show. Junior Linda Scott won honorable mention in scholastic awards for her artwork.

Art Club members also had a car wash to make money. They had the car wash the day of the Prom.

1980 AEOLIAN

Major contributions in layout and copy are the sole work of the sixth period journalism class. Members of the class include Wendy Goldie, Deb Myers, Missy Van Ort, Lena Sorensen, Brenda Jones, Doug Gilliland, Katie Kilgore, Lisa Lepley, Kim Penland, Jeanette Hunter and Jeanna Lindabury.

Students outside of class making minor contributions (one to five stories or a few hours of work) include Lori Ashenfelter, Tom Myers, Julie Engel and Mark Bowman.

The following people participated in selling ads and or yearbook subscriptions. Persons who sold ads sold between $10 and $650. These people (in no particular order) are Crystal Clark, Mike Bowmar, Todd Piety, Cheryl Wisel, Missy Van Ort, Julie Engel, Jami Knott, Joni Vanderbosch, Kathy Bergner, Jodi McMillan, Lisa Lepley, Beth Van Zile, Tonya Gradeless, Linda Reed, Marsha Kemerling, Katie Kilgore, Deb Myers, Wendy Goldie, Thad Smith, Ron Wilcoxson, Jeanette Hunter, Arlene Elbersen, Joyce Bandy, Serena Beber, Connie Langfeldt and Lori Ashenfelter.

Apologies are extended to anyone deserving credit who was not recognized. A special thanks goes out to all faculty members who helped the yearbook staff in many ways.

This was the first year for a publications class at GHS. This class produced nine issues of the student newspaper, the SIGNAL. This class also did most of the work on the 1980 edition of the Aeolian.

Three students attended Indiana University's High School Journalism Institute for two weeks to get ready for the year. All three students won awards in their areas. Ed Jarrett attended the photography section and was awarded the Randy Siddens award for his outstanding interest and work in photography. Marsha Haffner attended the special editors workshop and won an award for her outstanding achievements in this area. Wendy Goldie, who was attending IU for the third summer, won an honorable mention on her editor's brief. She also received an Indiana Daily Student/IU journalism scholarship.

The yearbook began the year on a down note. With more than three-fourths of last year's left to complete, the staff faced an almost hopeless cause. After spending almost the first half of the year completing the 1979 edition and getting organized, the sixth period journalism class came through to complete the 1980 Aeolian on time.

Student Council offers breakfast; shows "Power Play"

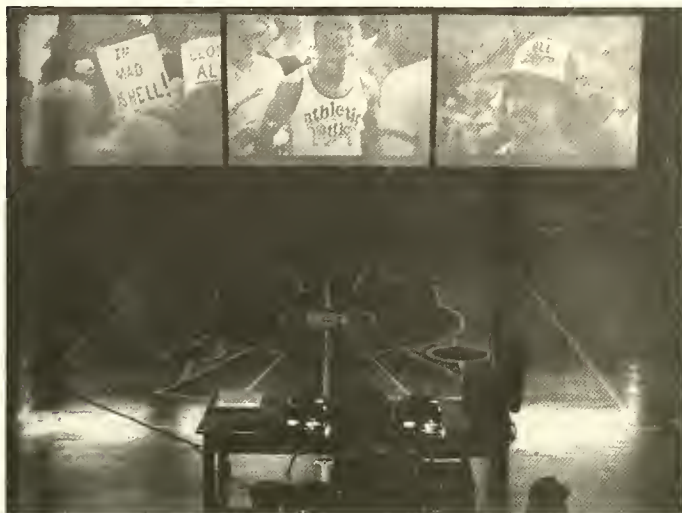

Student Council was active in many ways during the year. Members sold breakfast on Wednesday and Friday mornings for teachers and students.

Members sponsored homecoming, the 25th anniversary teams and sweetheart flower sales.

Council members attended state convention and picked up many new ideas. From this they sponsored the convocation "Power Play". Seven GHS students went to the convention.

Annual Student Council candy sales brought in $2,070.89 in profits. Members elected to use $100 of this towards purchasing a new flag pole for the football field.

Indiana Association of Student Councils

Bands practice hard, compete in area contests

The marching Railroaders competed in contests at East Noble High School and Cass High School in Indianapolis. They received a second division rating at Cass High School.

The band added more people and more color to the gradually developing flag corp. The flag corp is now in its second year at GHS.

The band prepared for its fall season by having a band camp and practicing six hours a day for one week. After school began, the band practiced three times a week for 1 ½ hours before school. The band also participated in many area parades.

The officers for the concert band this year were Eric Dirksen, president; Brad Forker, vice-president; Kyle Flesher, treasurer; and Connie Langfeldt, secretary. The representatives from each class included Jay Johnson, Ed Jarrett, Ernie Davis and Mary Gingery.

The band undertook many projects to raise money. Members sold fruit and calendars and conducted a rummage sale.

BACK ROW—Paul Garn, Joyce Bandy, Joselyn Smith, Jodi Steward, Rick Johnston, Janice Treesh, Eric Dirksen, Jodi Simcox, David Manuel, Janice Sigler, Jeff Lyon, Director David Silden, Mike Jarrett.

The band presented three concerts. They played a pops concert, a Christmas concert and an annual spring concert. Members participated in contests at South Side High School and at the NISBOVA contest. They won a second division rating at NISBOVA. Members presented the music for the all-school musical "OKLAHOMA" and for commencement.

Future Homemakers of America members conducted many activities during the year to raise money. Members used the money to send eight girls to State Convention and to sponsor a girls' basketball breakfast. Garrett's FHA Chapter received the Chapter of the Year award while at State Convention.

Members sold donuts and caramel apples during the DeKalb County fall fair. They sold games, stuffed animals and Christmas decorations during the holiday season.

FHA members sold approximately 500 Valentine lollipops which students gave to their sweethearts. During the year, FHA also conducted two bake sales. Members stayed after school to prepare the items.

FHA members also did things to help other people. Four members served a Mother's Day breakfast to the senior citizens. Members also went Christmas caroling to teachers' homes.

Sharon DeKoninck and Melinda Kappel went to leadership training camp in Trafalgar, Indiana, over the summer to develop leadership qualities. Chapter president Beth Hollinger also served as district president.

Joggers form club, run 3 times a week

Mr. Tom Pegelow organized a jogging club at GHS for all interested students who wished to get in shape and lose weight. The club formed right after Christmas vacation and continued until track season started in the spring. Around 45 students joined the club and participated.

The only requirement for the club was that each member jog at least one mile every morning they came to work out. Joggers usually came to school three times a week.

Club members jogged to the sectional basketball game at DeKalb High School to help raise team spirit. Members arrived in sweats and tennis shoes and were welcomed by the GHS crowd. Officers for the year included John Somers, president; Katie Kilgore, vice-president; Melanie Diederich, secretary; and Matt Gorman, treasurer.

Choirs perform for local clubs

All high school choirs joined together to conduct various money-making projects during the year. Members sponsored the all-school variety show and sold Pizza Hut Calendars and vocal Valentines. All money is put into the choir fund and used for purchasing outfits.

Under the direction of Miss Margaret Buttermore, the GHS swing choir placed second in the DeKalb County Fair and they were featured on a half-hour TV Christmas Concert on channel 33. They received an excellent rating at the swing choir contests. They also performed for many civic and community clubs.

Chorale choir performed the more difficult music ranging from classical to pop. This year the choir performed for various community clubs and organizations. The choir also performed at the Christmas and spring concerts and they appeared on WIFF radio. Chorale was one of five choirs invited to perform in a festival at IU-PU in Fort Wayne.

Concert choir is a mixed vocal choir which performs a variety of different styles of music. Students performed in the Christmas concert and in the spring concert. Some of the students went to the solo and ensemble contest in January. The smaller size of this choir allows for more individual help.

JH vocalists sing in 3 parts, enter contest

The large seventh and eighth grade choirs are part of the required classes for junior high students. These classes meet on alternate days as part of the fine arts classes. The students learn to sing in three-part mixed harmony.

Junior high swing choir members are selected through audition. This allows for a smaller group so that the more interested and talented students can work. These choirs usually perform the more popular music.

Several junior high students competed in the vocal solo and ensemble contest. At this contest members divide into divisions based on the difficulty of their music. The vocalists then perform their music and are judged.

JH band has 2 concerts during year

Junior high school band members presented two concerts during the year. They performed a Christmas and a pops concert. Both were successes.

The purpose of junior high school band is to teach the students the basics and to prepare them for the high school band.

"The band has worked well together and it has improved greatly as a whole," stated band director Mr. David Silden.

JH student council sponsors successful dances

Junior High student council was under the direction of Mr. Steve Stocker and Mr. Ronald Reeves. The club sponsored two successful dances for the seventh and eighth graders. They also assisted with the annual Student Council candy sale.

Officers for the year included Roxanne Hathaway, president; Brad Babbitt, vice-president; Melanie Lyon, secretary; and Lesli Dickerson, treasurer.

JH Drama Club helps with play

Putting on a play is not as easy as it seems. This is what the Junior High Drama Club found out when they assisted with the play "Hansel and Gretel". The play involved 15 cast members and 36 crew members. Drama Club sold refreshments at the performance.

The Drama Club presented a dance in the fall. They had a record dance in the J.E. Ober.

Officers throughout the year were Susan Getts, president; Patty Kleber, vice-president; Leigh Anne Chisholm, secretary; and Melinda McFann, treasurer.

Science Club investigates unearthly beings

Extraterrestrial life forms (forms of life outside earth or its atmosphere), rocks and electricity were the main topics of the informal discussion groups in Junior High Science Club. Mr. Robert Novy, audio visual specialist, lectured to the club on electricity. Kirk Johnson, Tim Crowe and Dan Miller attempted to make a perpetual motion device by using a syphon.

Science Club is also a means of extending the academic activities of the classroom. "This year I had more people join to get help with their science class," stated Mr. Jim Hecksel, club sponsor.

NJHS initiates 19 members

Junior High National Honor Society members were busy throughout the year. As a money-making project the members sold cotton candy at the Fourth of July festivities. Club members worked at PTO meetings by serving refreshments and acting as guides. Members supported the school newspaper by purchasing an advertisement in the senior edition.

Nineteen members were initiated this year. Nine eighth graders and ten seventh graders were selected for membership.

Officers for the school year were Melanie Lyon, president; Roxanne Hathaway, vice-president; Shelly Dunham, secretary; and Patty Kleber, treasurer. Mrs. Suzon Baker took over the club at the beginning of the year from Mrs. Bonnie Miles.

Junior High EXPRESS staff members help to keep the junior high school students up to date on all the news which affects them. The staff writes about JH dances, sports, teachers and other activities.

The newspaper also features special columns such as Dear Gertrude, Coaches Corner and Mystery Teacher.

Students learn about newspaper deadlines and interviewing techniques. Mrs. Beth Grogg has been the newspaper's sponsor since it began in 1975.

JH Art Club joins high school organization

Junior High School Art Club joined with the high school art club to eliminate scheduling conflicts. The junior high school students worked on all the activities which the club sponsored.

Members had a car wash behind the gym the day of the prom. Many members showed up to suds up the vehicles and have fun.

Art Club also conducted an art show. Club members and local artists displayed their work.

Spirit Club keeps the teams fired up

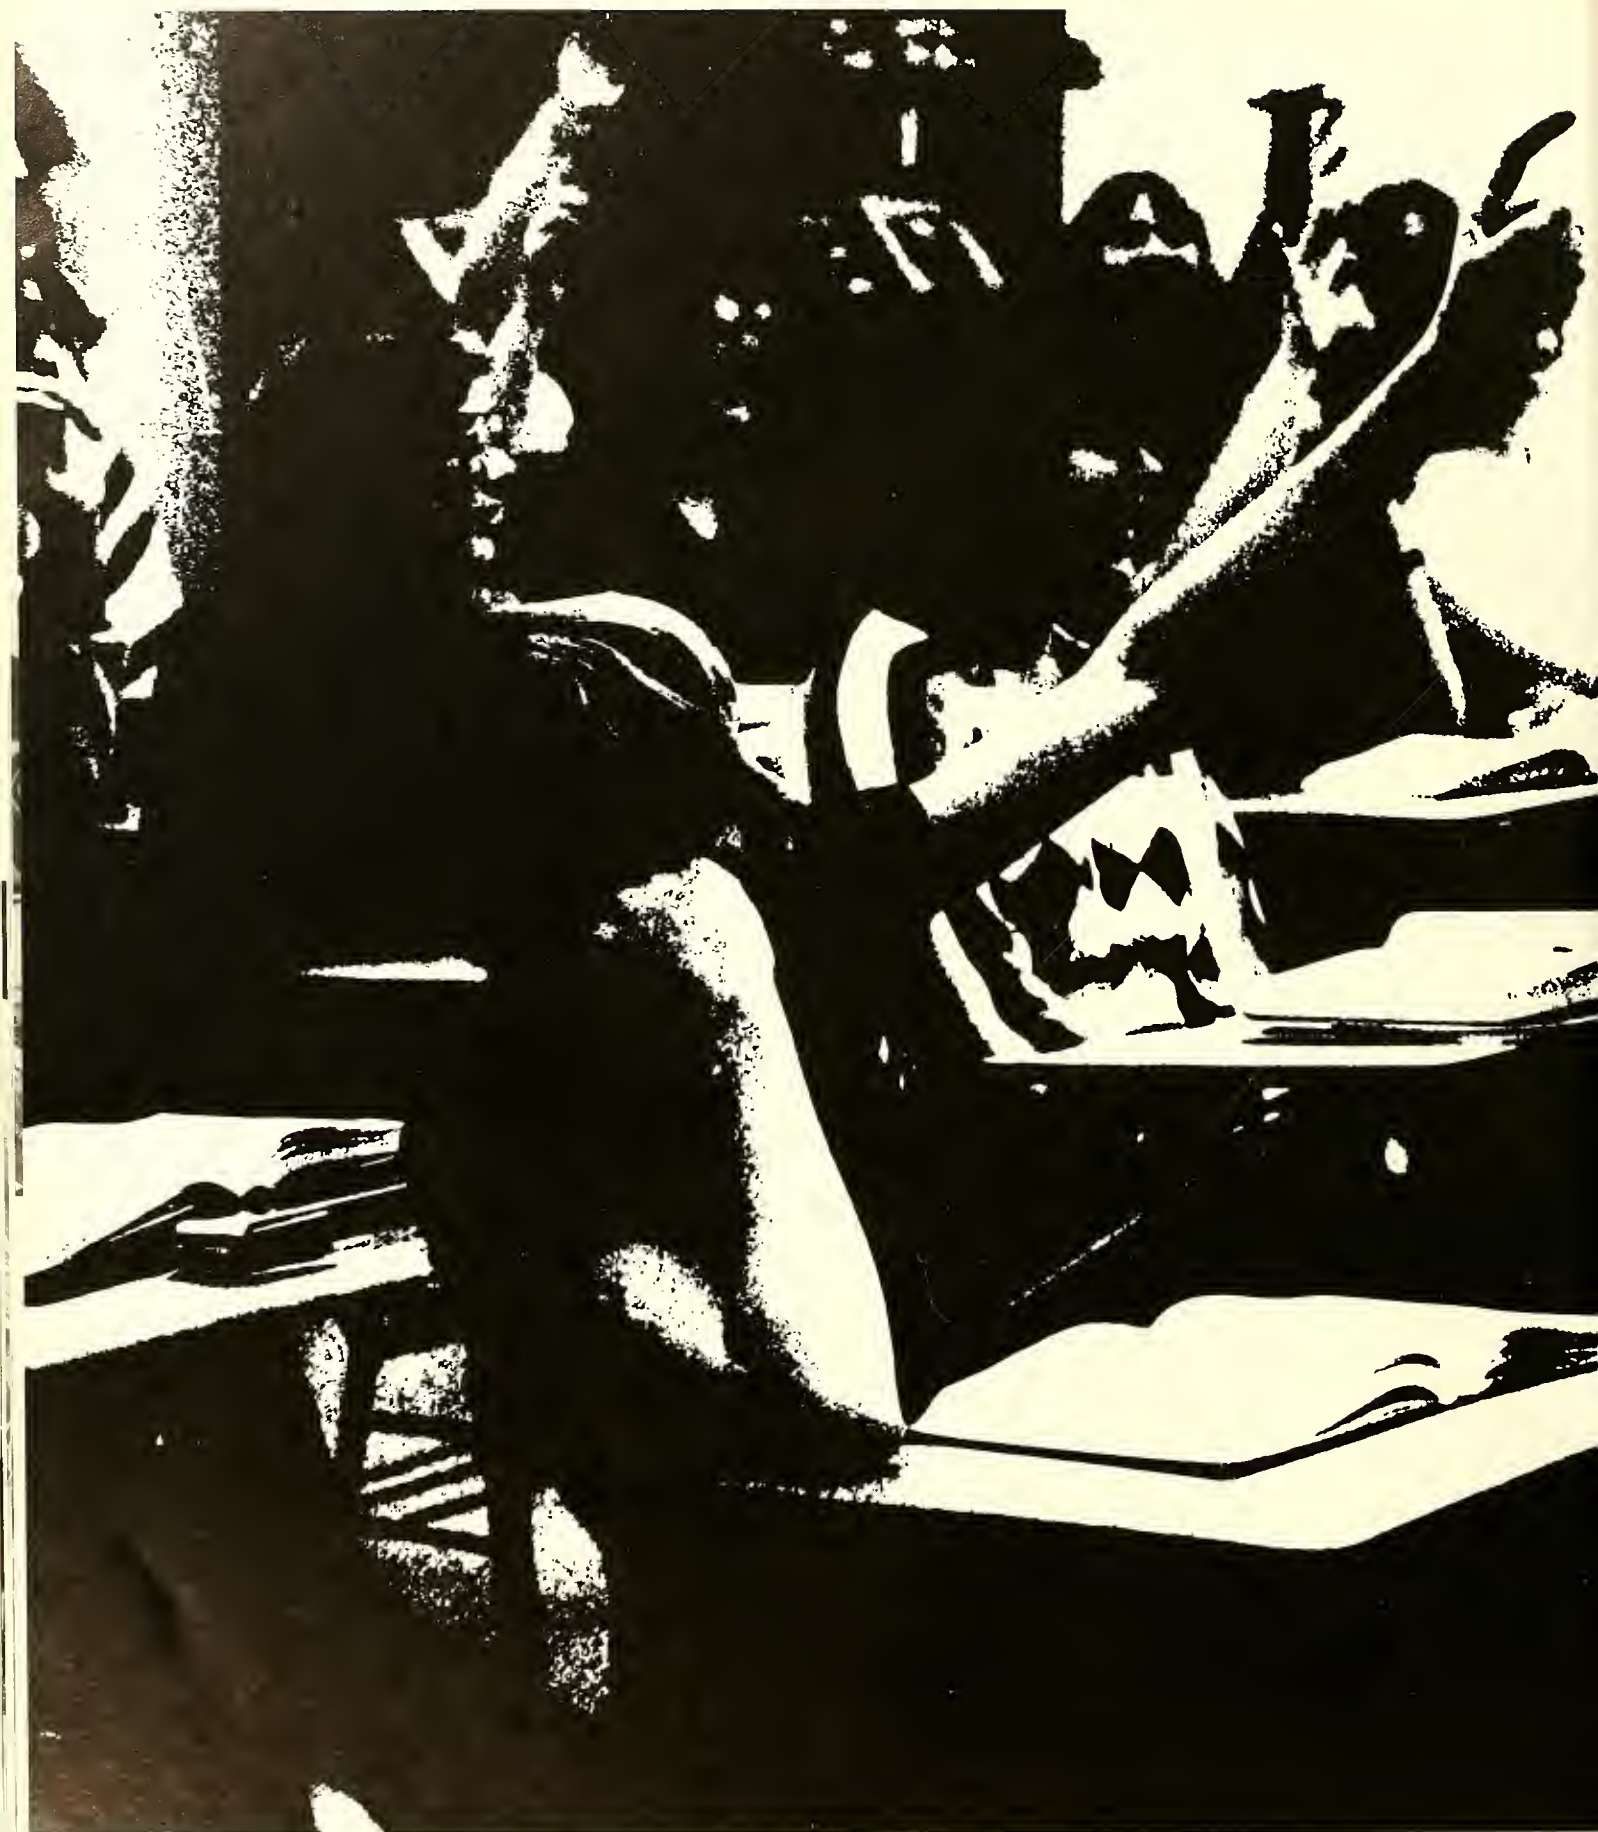

Junior High Spirit Club sponsored a hat dance for the junior high school students on March 14. Each student who wore a hat got a discount on the admission price.

The club began the year by purchasing spirit shirts. The shirts had the graduating year and the name of the member on it. Students wore these shirts to athletic events to show support for the team. Members also sat in the front rows and cheered with the cheerleaders at games.

Officers for the year were Leigh Anne Chisholm, president; Larkin Hunter, vice-president; and Lorie Zeider, secretary-treasurer. Miss Leslie Wise was the faculty sponsor.

classes

We build our minds through classes.

GHS vocational program involves many students

"People don't realize how many students are involved in some kind of vocational course," stated Mrs. Victoria Short, head of the vocational department at GHS. "At some time during high school probably half of the students are enrolled in a vocational class," added Mrs. Short.

The vocational department at GHS covers a broad area. The classes offered are auto mechanics, building trades, business lab, interdisciplinary co-op, woods, advanced woods, welding, beginning metals, advanced metals, drafting I and II, adult living, child development, housing, clothing I and II, foods I and II, consumer education and interpersonal relations.

The vocational department took on one major project through the year. Many classes worked together to finish the fifth annual building trades house. The house was designed by Bobby Johnson, a 1978-79 drafting student. Blue prints were made by the 1979-80 drafting class. Mr. Andrew Giegold's agriculture classes did the landscaping. Mrs. Barbara Olin's classes did the interior decorating. The actual construction was done by Mr. Owen Bradley's building trades classes. The house was open for public viewing on May 10 and 11.

Vocational courses at GHS are geared to prepare students for the job market after leaving high school by teaching them how to work with their hands and use business skills.

Business courses teach practical skills

GHS business classes offer students the opportunity to learn and develop business skills. These skills may then be used on the job or they may be applied to other classes which the student is taking.

Students in accounting learn to work with the financial records of a business. Each class works with practice sets which are practical applications of the skills learned.

General business students are taught basic business principles. They learn how to budget money and how to work with a check book.

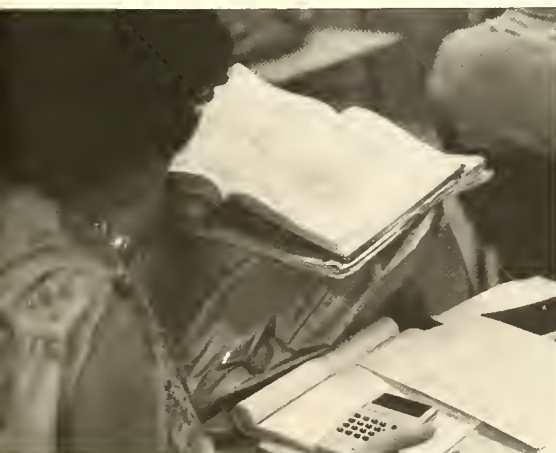

Typing students develop speed and accuracy while developing skills in sending letters and doing term papers.

Shorthand and notehand classes teach students how to take notes quickly and then transcribe them for use.

Business machines students learn how to operate different office machines which the students got to use.

Business lab classes work in a realistic office setting. This year students answered the in-coming calls to the school during second and third periods.

Many business classes went on field trips during the year. Some of the places they visited include Dana Corporation in Auburn and Churubusco, Lincoln National Bank, International Business College and Bassett Office Supply.

Math department adds computer class for seniors

The math department has spent its time giving GHS students more problems to solve. A new computer class was added to the 1979-80 curriculum. Mr. David Neal taught the new course to seniors. A student's prerequisites for the new course were algebra and geometry.

Seventh grade students got a surprise this year. They took an eighth grade Algebra Prognosis Test. Those students who scored high on the test then became eligible to take algebra in eighth grade, geometry as a freshman and advanced algebra as a sophomore. Trigonometry and analytic geometry will then be taught when the student is a junior. This will allow the student to take a course in calculus and college math as a senior.

Senior Bill Sherwood received top honors in the National Math Test. Six-thousand students participated in the test. Out of 132 schools GHS ranked 36th. Seniors Bill Sherwood and Carson Sparks and junior Cyndy Sparks had the three best scores at GHS.

Generally this year in mathematics, students seemed to be able to cope with the tough problems they confronted each day. Next year the math department will try to provide more computers and better equipment to allow more students to become involved in the computer class.

PE, health stress physical well-being "Ready, begin—up two, three, four; down two, three, four!" Many P.E. students hear this every day while doing push-ups, sit-ups and various other exercises. The P.E. department, headed by Mr. Richard Capin accommodates senior and junior high school students.

Because junior high students are required to take one semester of gym, approximately 130 students were scheduled for each gym class. The inadequate equipment and the noise factor proved to cause many problems.

On the senior high school level students played basketball and volleyball. Bowling, ice skating and judo were taught in some of the classes.

Health Department head Mr. Richard Capin feels that there is a new need for a drug program at the seventh grade level. He suggests that by the time a student reaches seventh grade he/she has already been exposed to drugs. Therefore, a program would be suitable at this time. All freshmen who took health this year had to meet a new requirement. Students were required to learn CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation). CPR trainers were asked to come into the classroom and assist in the teaching of proper techniques.

English, social studies departments plan changes

The social studies department at GHS, under the second-year direction of Mr. Roderick Pressler, consists of seven different classes on the high school level and two classes at the junior high level.

In high school, as a junior, everyone is required to take a full year of U.S. history. Then as seniors, students are required to take one semester of U.S. government. The next semester a student must take either sociology, psychology, or economics.

As electives, a student may choose from world history or current issues. These electives are offered so that students may obtain a major in social studies.

All seventh graders must take world studies and all eighth graders take a year of U.S. history. Mr. Pressler noted that the social studies department is going to institute a testing program which will begin on the junior high level and continue through high school. This testing program would measure the knowledge which students gain by taking various classes.

This year teachers in the English department tried new activities to get their students more involved in the courses. Mrs. Miles' eighth grade read essays on kites and kite-flying. Then they spent a few days constructing kites in class. Then they selected an appropriate day to fly them.

Mrs. Grogg and Miss Wise were involved in a videotaping project in which students made their own films. These students won an award for their work.

Mrs. Bailey and Ms. Eastes gave their students a wider outlook of the world by supervising various field trips for them.

Next year the English department plans to revise their classes. At present students are required to take ninth and tenth grade English. These classes teach the basics of English. As juniors and seniors, students must take one reading and one writing course.

The basic requirements will remain the same next year but there will be more options for classes available. Survey of Teenage Hassles will be a new reading course which will concern modern novels about teenagers and their hassles and how they deal with them.

Science students get new rooms, equipment

Chemical reactions, environmental problems, paramecium, bacteria and dissecting frogs: what do all these things have in common? These are things that are studied in various science classes at GHS.

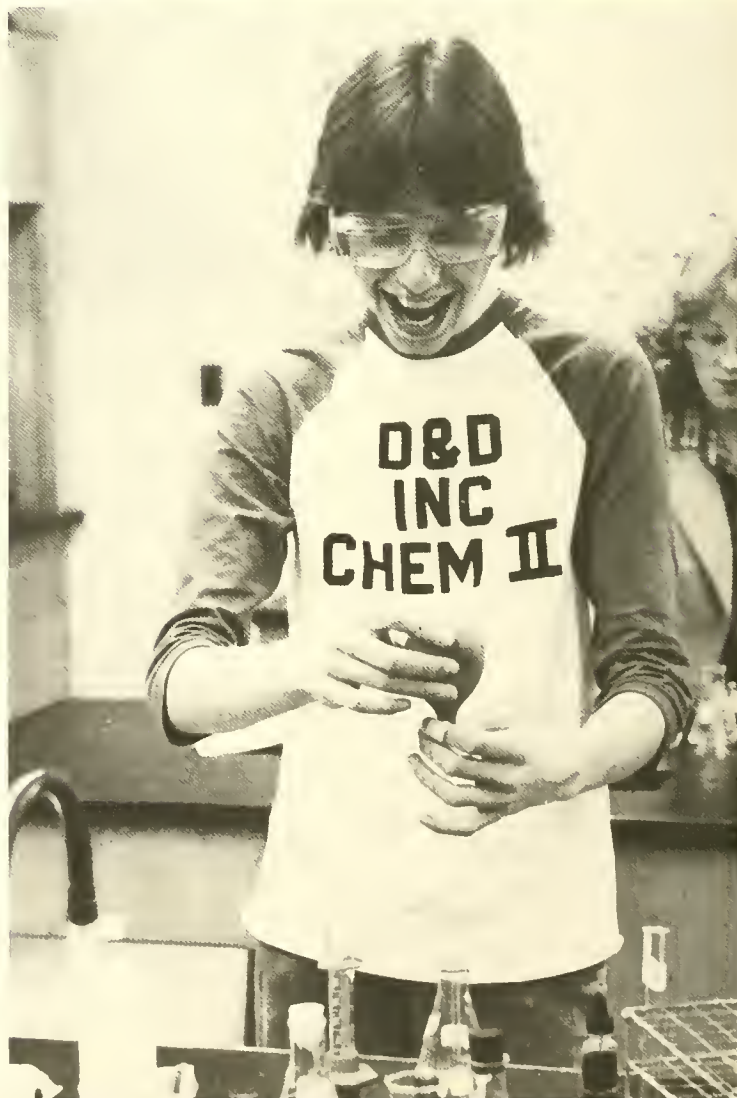

1980 was no exception for the science classes. Students continued to study these areas in the midst of all the construction. The science dpeartment got new rooms in the middle of the year and this meant a lot of packing up and moving things.

The new science rooms were equipped with new lab tables which have separate gas jets and water faucets. The advanced chemistry classes got new safety equipment to prevent accidents. They are now able to experiment with new chemicals.

Fine arts students win several honors

Music, art and drama make up the fine arts department at GHS. The art classes worked with clay, painting, drawing and metal sculpture during the year. Art Club sponsored a car wash and an art show.

Those students interested in drama worked on various productions such as "Harvey" and "Oklahoma" during the year. Many students worked on the play crews behind the scenes.

Eric Dirksen was presented the John Philip Sousa Award for his outstanding musical accomplishments during the four years he was in GHS band. Eric won four first place awards in state competition this year. Junior Jeff Lyon received the Tri-Kappa junior band member award.

In the vocal area, junior Judy Barry was selected for the Indiana All-State Choir. She was one of 200 students selected from the state. Judy performed different chorale selections with guest conductor Mr. Paul Salamunovich.

Joselynn Smith, Jennifer Ferry, Chuck LaTurner, Kurt Flesher and Kyle Flesher were selected for the Tri-State choir festival. They performed the "Gloria" by Antonio Vivaldi.

Many students from both the vocal and the instrumental divisions competed in the solo and ensemble contest. Those students receiving firsts in Division I (the most difficult section) then went on to compete in state contest.

Personnel adapts to room conditions

Office personnel were working in odd places during the first semester until their new offices were built. Principal Gaylord Toll and Mrs. Jayne DeLong were located in the Ober building and other office workers were located in the concession stands.

When school opened there were no bells, no clocks and no intercom system. The office staff pulled together to make the year work against all the odds.

BOTTOM LEFT—Mrs. Harriett Ludban keeps the accounting records for all the extra-curricular activities at GHS.

BOTTOM RIGHT—Mrs. Janet Getts worked in the concession stand printing dittos until her new office was ready.

Administrators conduct GHS business

School board members do many things during the year which effect the lives of the students and faculty. They vote on many issues such as the building program and financing school lunches. Members also decide which teachers may attend conferences and at the end of the year they sign the seniors diplomas.

TOP LEFT—Superintendent Kermit Weddell oversees all aspects of the school system.

Many people help make GHS a nice place to stay during the day. The cafeteria staff prepares food everyday for lunch. The janitors help to keep the school clean and in good repair. The bus drivers bring students to school early every day and take them safely home each evening.

The teachers also help make school a pleasant place to be. They help every student learn and they are always available if students have problems.

128 seniors receive diplomas in Paul Bateman gym

Juniors Linda Scott and Cyndy Sparks led the processional for 128 seniors for the 96th annual commencement program. Seniors were clad in gowns of dark blue (boys), light blue (girls), and white (National Honor Society).

GHS band members presented musical selections prior to the program. They began the services with the processional and "The Star Spangled Banner".

Senior Class President Ron Conrad addressed the senior class as a whole for the last time. He thanked the parents of the graduates for all the help they have provided over the years.

Jodi Piety presented the salutatorian address. She reminded class members that "this is both a day for smiles and for tears." Jodi was recognized during the program for being the salutatorian.

Wendy Goldie gave the valedictory address. She stated: "To live your life in your own way, to reach for the goals you have set for yourself, to be the you that you want to be—That is success." She then expressed her hope that each member of the senior class would try to achieve this true success. Wendy was also recognized for her scholastic accomplishments during commencement.

Swing Choir and Chorale members presented "If You Believe" and "No Man Is An Island". Rev. Marlin K. Ressler, pastor of the Christian Union Brethren in Christ Church gave His ministerial address based on "The Choices of Youth".

Sue Payton crowned Queen

Saturday, Jan. 29 was a night of excitement for the Homecoming candidates. This annual tradition was continued as Sue Payton was crowned Homecoming Queen and basketball co-captain Andy Herzer congratulated her with a kiss.

Selected to represent the senior class were Kim Nierman, Sue Payton and Jodi Piety. Their escorts were Ron Conrad, Randy Mosley and Paul Ewing.

Sophomores Diane Morr and Doug Peters were chosen by their class as candidates. Jane Dircksen and Doug Kee represented the freshmen.

This year queen candidates were selected by a different method. A list of eligible candidates from each class was distributed to members of the class which they represent. Each class then voted for their candidates.

Following the game against West Noble, Student Council sponsored a Homecoming dance. S.R.O. provided the music for the evening.

Members of the varsity basketball squad pulled down a 59-53 victory over West Noble. This added to the happy atmosphere of the Homecoming activities.

Katie Kilgore, Nate Hoeffel win Homecoming honors

"Indian Summer '79" was the theme of Garrett's fall Homecoming. Because the new football field was not completed, the ceremony was carried out at DeKalb.

The candidates were selected by the football, cross-country and volleyball teams. They were seniors Joni Feagler, Katie Kilgore, Dennis Hile, Nate Hoeffel; juniors Pam Smock, Lori Vanderbosch, Chris Hoeffel, Tim Herzer; sophomores

Joy Hixson, Lena Sorensen, Harold Kline, Trey Lantz; freshmen Jenney McPheeters, Della Zolman, Doug Kee and Eric Mossberger.

Instead of cars, the classes decorated trucks supplied by Yoder Ford. Student Council gave each class $5 for decorations.

A trophy was given to the sophomores for the best decorated truck. The cross-country and volleyball captains crowned Katie and Nate and gave them the customary kiss.

Other half-time festivities included performances by the Sidetrackers pom pon squad and the band.

25th anniversary teams recognized during year

The 1954-55 football and basketball teams were honored this year by Pep Club and Student Council respectively.

The '54 football team was coached to a 5-2-1 record by Mr. Richard Capin. His assistant was Mr. Ward Smith, now of Attica High School.

Team members included Alan LaRue, Adrian Thompson, Paul Ridenour, John Bishop, Jack Beber, Lynn Andrews,

Charles Tooman, Frank Mossberger, James Carroll, Fred Salerno, Don Potter, Will Eastes, Eston Hathaway, Stephen Gaw, Glen Helbert, Larry Houser, Gary Shafer, Maurice Getts, Sherman Lewis, Kenneth Severson, Louis Easterday, Wayne Bartels, Robert Wiant, Daniel Fuller, Don Thompson, William Kelham, Gene Bartels, Gerald Bowmar, John Livergood, Eugene

Farrington, William Starner, Darrell Thompson, Roger Weimer, Danny McPheeters, Leonard Vanderbosch, Ronald Weimer, and Ralph (Bud) Wilcoxson.

The 1954-55 Garrett basketball squad, under the experienced coaching of Ward Smith, compiled a record of 17 wins and six losses. The Railroaders were undefeated on their home court in nine starts. Garrett won the 1954 Holiday Tourney at Fremont by defeating Butler and Angola.

Another outstanding accomplishment of the 1954-55 team was winning the NEIC championship by making a 5-1 record in conference play, losing once to Bluffton.

Members of the anniversary team include Louis Easterday, Larry Getts, Gerald Bowmar, Will Eastes, Stephen Gaw, James Carroll, Maurice Getts, Kenneth Severson, Roger Weimer, Eston Hathaway, Don Potter, and William Starner. Managers were Alan LaRue and Robert Wiant.

Beverly Fulk Rowe, Dorothy Crow Feick, Donna Crow Bowmar, and Pat Miser Weimer were cheerleaders for both the silver anniversary squads.

1980 prom-goers take 'Magical Mystery Tour'

"Magical Mystery Tour" was the theme for the 1980 Junior-Senior prom. Seniors Nate Hoeffel and Lori Letizia were crowned Prom King and Queen.

The five-piece band "KIK", featuring soft rock, provided music for the evening of fun. Mr. Dick Stoner amazed prom-goers with endless feats of magic throughout the night.

A flight of stairs decorated with stars provided the setting for the prom pictures this year. Hambidge Studio was selected to take the pictures.

Juniors raised over $3,000 for the prom through magazines sales and by sponsoring a donkey basketball game. A dinner was not served this year but finger foods were available.

The A-C-D Museum was the location for the festivities again this year.

Junior-senior picnic: a success

Food, football and frisbee were all a part of the Junior-Senior picnic. Pokagon State Park was again the setting for the festivities. The picnic took place May 12 from after school until 8 p.m.

Following tradition, the senior class provided the ham and pop. Picnic attendees provided covered dishes making up a bountiful potluck.

Although the skies were overcast, the rain held off throughout the event. Seniors beat the juniors in the annual football game.

PICNIC: A success despite all odds

A migratory muscle man, a dysphoric dryad, and a bacchanalian business man: What do these three types of people all have in common? They're all part of the William Inge's ironically-titled play PICNIC. Although the show takes place in a small Kansas town, celebrating Labor Day with an outing, the resulting action is anything but a picnic.

Hal, a very handsome college dropout, who makes his living doing odd jobs for people, appears in town one day. His looks and outgoing personality seem to cause women to become instantly infatuated with him, including four of the local ladies: Mrs. Potts, a lonely woman facing old age with only an invalid mother for company; Rosemary Sydney, an independent but frustrated school teacher trying to recapture her lost youth; Millie, a 15-year-old tomboy experiencing her first case of puppy love, and Madge, her 18-year-old sister, finding true love at last.

A string of broken but matured hearts is left in his path after Hal's departure. Madge follows, leaving behind Alan, her former boyfriend, and her mother, who had made a mistake by doing the same thing when she was young—and who wanted a better life for Madge.

The play was performed on two consecutive days, Saturday, February 23, and Sunday, February 24.

Saturday's presentation was at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday's was at 3:30 p.m.

After the final Sunday performance, Mrs. Susan Roberts, director, was presented with the traditional gift of roses from the cast.

The cast party was at Ron Wilcoxson's house after the Saturday night presentation.

The play was a great success, especially considering the odds it was up against during rehearsals. Two of the cast members were seriously ill for approximately a total of three weeks. It looked as though major roles were going to have to be filled by minor-role characters, and the minor roles taken by completely new people. Luckily, the actors recovered sufficiently to return to practice and were on stage opening night.

All-school cast presents classical "Oklahoma!"

The GHS presentation of "Oklahoma!" turned out to be as successful as it was for Rogers and Hammerstein when it opened on Broadway almost forty years ago.

"Oklahoma!" became the jumping-off point for musical theatre because it was the first production where dance was used as an essential part of the story rather than just decoration.

The plot concerns Laurey, a young woman who lives on her Aunt Eller's farm, and Curley, a cowboy who loves her. Laurey feels the same way, but doesn't want him to know because "He's so fresh." For this reason, she goes out with the hired hand, Jud.

Then there's Ado Annie, the "girl who can't say no," and her two suitors, Will Parker, and Ali Hakim, a peddler. Annie can't decide between the two, but her father has promised her hand to the man who comes up with fifty dollars first.

Meanwhile, Jud, who's also in love with Laurey, warns Curley to stay away from her. Curley refuses, and later, at a picnic, is attacked by a knife-wielding Jud, who falls on his own weapon and dies.

At the same time, it looks like Ali Hakim (who really wants to stay single) will win Annie because Will has spent all his money on useless presents for her. Will has an idea and decides to sell the presents to Ali for fifty dollars.

The show ends happily when Curley is acquitted, proposes to Laurey, and Ado Annie says "yes" to Will.

TOP LEFT—Ron Conrad and Nate Hoeffel (cowboys) try to show the townsmen that "The Farmer and the Cowman" should be friends.

BELOW LEFT—Faye (Cyndy Sparks) and Ellen (Jennifer Ferry) try to convince Laurey (Judy Barry) of her love for Curley in "Out of My Dreams".

Remember the story of Hansel and Gretel? Well, it's the story of two children who have a mean stepmother. The mother turns the children's father against them and has him take the children to the woods where they become lost. A mean witch finds them and gives them all sorts of trouble. In the end good triumphs over evil and the children live happily ever after.

Junior high play members presented this classic story on May 24. Junior high drama club sold refreshments at the play.

Junior Judy Barry was the student director and Thad Smith assisted her. Mrs. Susan Roberts was the faculty advisor for the production. About 25 junior high school students worked behind the scenes on the play.

ABOVE—During the play, the mother (Mary Hile) attempts to chase the cat (Kim Johnston) away as Hansel (Doug Brumbaugh) and Gretel (Karen Albright) look on in dismay.

TOP—Susan Myers, Duane Griffis, Kim Johnston, Doug Brumbaugh and Dee Bauman try to help the hurt cat (Kim Johnston).

RIGHT—The witch (Julie Gillespie) smells Hansel and Gretel and decides that she may have found her Sunday dinner.

COLOPHON

A colophon is a section in the yearbook which explains the production of a yearbook. This edition of the AEOLIAN was definitely a learning experience for all those who were involved in any way.

Each 16 pages in the yearbook are grouped together in a signature. Each side of a signature is called a flat. The color pages in this book appear on the back flat of the first signature.

The name of the print we used is called executive type. Our body copy is in 10 point type. Our captions are in 8 point type and our headlines in 24 point type.

The cover was designed by Todd Piety. He also did the lettering for the division pages and the index.

The color scheme was selected by the editor. Page layout and body copy was done by the sixth period journalism class.

Our theme was selected because of all the building projects within the school and community. We carried out the theme on the division pages and in the closing.

The 1980 AEOLIAN was published by HERF JONES PUBLISHING COMPANY. It is located in Montgomery, Alabama. They printed 525 copies of the yearbook.

Subscriptions to the book were sold for $8. Names and plastic covers were made available for $1 each.

Many people contributed to making this book a great success. At the beginning of the year the situation looked hopeless. Last years' yearbook was not even near completion and no one knew what to do. Through the help of many people the 1979 edition was completed and distributed at a dance.

The 1980 AEOLIAN was organized and sold nearly $4,000 in advertisements. This helped ease the financial burden of the previous yearbook, while paying for this one.

A special thanks must go out to our HERF JONES representative Mr. Mike Howard for all the hours he has spent helping with the book. Mrs. Bonnie Miles has spent uncountable hours helping with this AEOLIAN. She proofread each page and she taught many students the basics of yearbook production. This book could never have been completed without her help.

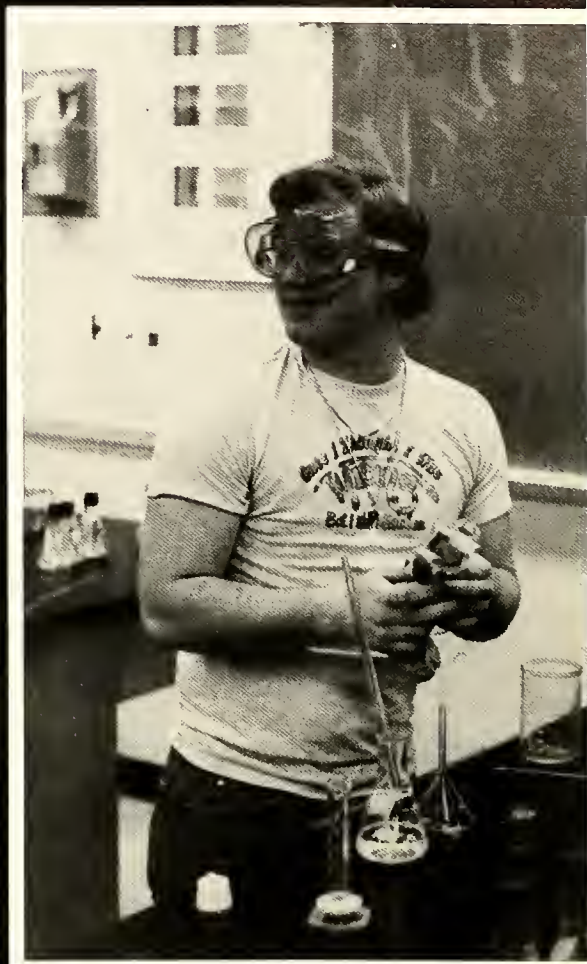

Mr. Mike Sellers, yearbook advisor, spent a lot of his time tracking down pictures for the book. He also dedicated the first two weeks of his summer vacation to the AEOLIAN.

Wendy Goldie served as editor for this year. She spent many hours everyday working on this production.

With the help of the faculty and administration the yearbook was finished on time.
